The History of Lincoln High School

Lincoln High School - 1907

Early in spring 1906, a group of Seattle School Board members crossed Lake Union and headed north to the small neighborhood of Wallingford in search of a site for a new high school in the north end of the city. Lincoln High School, during the 50s was the largest high school in the state. In the 80s the school closed due to declining enrollment. Because of changing community demographics, Lincoln will reopen in 2019 as a state-of-the-art, four-year high school.

Preserving the history and tradition of Lincoln High School

Membership in the Lincoln Lynx Alumni Association

To former members, we miss you as a loyal member of LLAA. To those who have never been members, we would love to have you join us in supporting future Lincoln graduates pursue their higher education.

Our alma mater will reopen as a full 4-year high school in 2019. Exciting times, to say the least, for Lincoln alumni and LLAA.

We are playing an active role in the preparation for this reopening and plan to expand our scholarship program to include LHS graduating seniors in addition to our primary purpose of granting scholarships to lineal descendants of LHS graduates.

Remodeled Lincoln High School

The remodeled Lincoln High School will be a “state-of-the-art” educational center with the technology, learning centers, and curriculum essential for the preparation of students for tomorrow’s careers and civic leadership.

Our Mission

The Mission of the Lincoln Lynx Alumni Association is to:

- Promote and preserve the history of Lincoln High School of Seattle, Washington.
- Promote activities that strengthen bonds between Lincoln graduates, attendees and staff
- Provide scholarships to lineal descendants of Lincoln High School, Seattle, Washington graduates, attendees and staff.

Join Us!

When you join the Lincoln Lynx Alumni Association (LLAA) you become part of a rich tradition. Generations of Lincoln High School families from the shores of Lake Union to Richmond Beach are the heart of the Wallingford community. In keeping with this great community of long-time friends, the LLAA honors the memories, traditions, and history of our alma mater.

Your membership includes your subscription to the alumni newspaper, Totem II, which is published three times a year. The Totem II includes news and notices of upcoming events within the larger community as well as individual class-by-class reports with specific news of friends and classmates.

Your LLAA dues also support an ongoing scholarship fund for lineal descendants of Lincoln graduates.
